UNITED NATIONS HUMAN RIGHTS OFFICE OF THE HIGH COMMISSIONER

YOUR VOICE MATTERS!

We need your help to better protect children in armed conflicts

Hi!

Hello from the United Nations Human Rights Office!

We are working on a special report about how children's rights are affected in places where there's fighting or war. We want to make sure that your voices are heard because they are very important to help us protect children better and make sure your rights are respected!

A report is an important document with helpful ideas and suggestions. This one will be for all adults working to protect children's rights, like governments or United Nations bodies

You can also ask yourself: Which children are hurt the most by war?

Here's what we'd love to hear from you about

What are the biggest ways war harms children's rights, both now and in the future?

Exploring the problems

Looking at current protections

How well are programs keeping children safe and helping those who've been hurt? What's working and what needs fixing?

What makes it so difficult for children to stay safe and be cared for during a war?

Barriers to protecting children

Making things better

How can children recover from war? What care and support do they need?

How to share your powerful ideas

Please send your thoughts by January 15, 2025 to this mail:

ohchr-registry@un.org (cc: sulini.sarugaser@un.org)

Make sure your response is no more than 5 pages long!

